

DMMS ISO 12122-1:2014- Timber structures- Determination of characteristics values-Part 1:
Basic requirements

Scope

This International Standard gives methods for the determination of characteristic values for a defined population of timber products, calculated from test values. It presents methods for the determination of

- a) characteristic value of mean-based properties, and
- b) characteristic value of 5th percentile-based properties.

Public Comment Use Only