

DMMS ISO 13910:2014- Timber structures- Strength graded timber- Test methods for structural properties

Scope

This International Standard specifies test procedures for full-size sawn timber that has been strength-graded, for the derivation of design properties in codes dealing with structural engineering design. It is applicable to sawn timber of rectangular cross-section subjected to a short-duration load.

Public Comment Use Only